

Could you become a Service User Research Champion?

Do you have an enthusiasm for research and recognise the importance of research for developing and improving services?

Coventry and Warwickshire Partnership NHS Trust are looking for two enthusiastic and motivated people with experience of using services to join our research team as Service User Research Champions.

What will this role involve?

Service User Research Champions will have a key role in promoting the importance of research and letting other service users know about opportunities for taking part in research studies in the Trust.

Service User Research Champions will be asked to commit two hours of their time each week and will receive payment, training and support for undertaking this role.

If you would like to find out more about this exciting opportunity, please contact Nicola Standen by 21 September 2012.
